Americans Seize Large Supply of Radium In Japan

Radium Found In Vaults Of German Consulate; Value Set At $2,500,000

HUGE PLANE REVEALED

American Engineers To Study Long Range KI-77 Built By Jap Plant

BULLETIN
TOKYO, Oct. 26—Gen. Douglas MacArthur tonight ordered immediate confiscation of all weapons from the Japanese.

TOKYO, Oct. 26—American troops seized another $5,500,000 in bullion and other valuables — including $2,500,000 worth of radium — stolen by the Nazis from Czechoslovakia in Japan today.

Sixth army counter-intelligence troops found the radium in vaults of the German consulate at Osaka. It had been sent by Czechoslovakia to Japan in the 1930s for hospital use and was confiscated by the Germans when they occupied the Czechoslovak homeland.

The radium was packed in lead vials in lead-lined caskets, but x-ray tests at the 36th evacuation hospital revealed that the vials were leaking precious radiation. New lead containers were built for it.

The remaining $3,000,000 worth of silver bullion and valuables was seized by troops of the 97th infantry division in a raid on a Japanese storehouse near Iida on a tip.

A Japanese airplane designer, meantime, told a press conference that the Tayhikawa plant built a long-range KI-77 plane which broke the world's distance record with a 10,306-mile non-stop flight last July.

The designer, Moriyuki Nakagawa, who worked for four months in 1937-1938 in a Lockheed aircraft plant, said only two of the huge planes were built. One was shot down while en route from Singapore to Germany in 1944 and the other will be sent to the United States for study by American engineers.

While the plane was intended primarily for use in maintaining liaison with Germany throughout the war, Nakagawa said, it also was to have been fitted for long-distance bombing.

Nakagawa said he did not know whether continental United States had been selected as a possible target.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that it had received no official communication from the Japanese government on any phase of the Zaitatsu question.

Plenty Of New Tires Due Soon

Rubber Executives Claim Tire Rationing To End By December 31

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 26—Two of the tire industry's top men had some good news for American motorists today.

E. J. Thomas, president of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, told a group of 16 reporters making a national reconversion survey that "Washington sources" he wouldn't identify, had informed him tire rationing would be ended by Dec. 31.

A short time later John W. Thomas, chairman of the board of Firestone Tire and Rubber company told the same group that if "everything goes well" motorists ought to get all the tires they need sometime in the first quarter of next year.

They'll be all synthetic rubber for some time to come, except for truck and bus tires which rate some natural rubber because of the rough beating they must take.

Goodyear's Thomas said that even with the end of tire rationing "consumers will still have to scratch for tires."

"However," he added, the supply (Continued on Page Two)

UNMARKED PLOT HOLDS DR. LEY

Nazi Slave Market Boss Beats Justice; Hangs Self In Prison

NUERENBERG, Germany, Oct. 26—The body of Dr. Robert Ley, the surly Nazi labor front boss who committed suicide in his cell rather than face trial as a war criminal, was buried secretly in an unmarked grave today.

Authorities said the location of the grave would be withheld from the public to prevent Nazi sympathizers from exhuming the body.

The fat, swarthy Ley hanged himself last night with a noose fashioned from strips of a G-1 bath towel suspended from the overhead fusing lever of the toilet in his cell at Nuernberg jail.

He had stuffed his mouth with rags torn from his underdrawers to muffle his last groans.

It was revealed that Ley left a number of documents and personal papers in his cell. These were being translated and authorities said their contents would be published if of public interest.

The 20 other top Nazis awaiting trial in the jail were not told of Ley's suicide, and new precautions were ordered to make certain that none could similarly cheat allied justice.

They said Ley had given no particular previous indication that he was contemplating suicide. However, he has been suffering from mental depression and psychologists had classified him as a type of man liable to take his own life.

He was particularly gloomy when the war crimes indictment (Continued on Page Two)

WORLD PARLEY ON JAVA ASKED BY REPUBLICAN

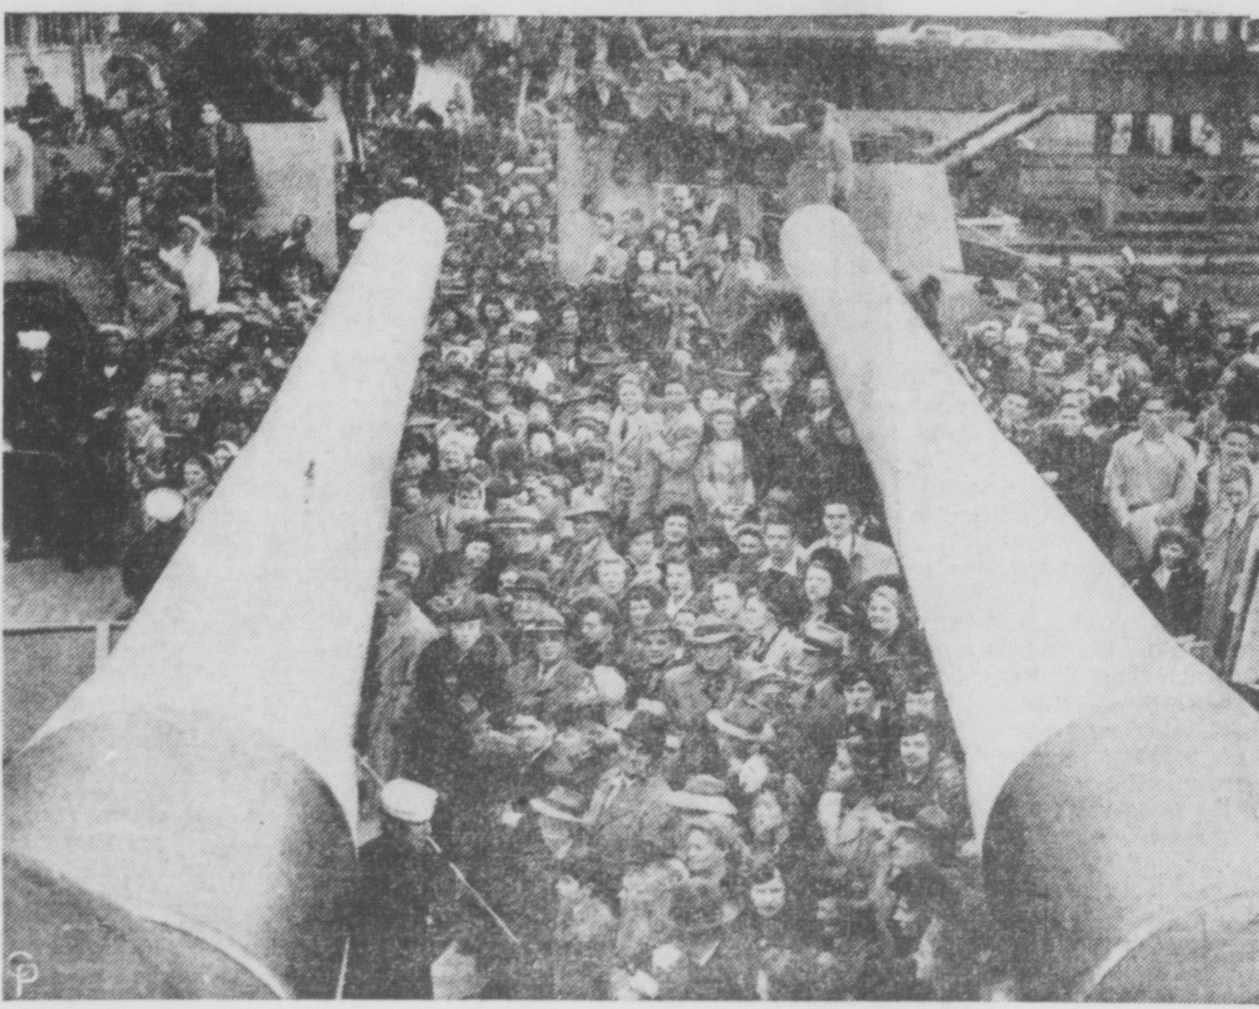

BATAVIA, Oct. 26—Dr. Amir Sjarifudin, Republican minister of information, appealed today for consideration of Indonesian problems on "an international basis."

"Preliminary talks could be held between the concerned parties with a third party as intermediary," he suggested.

His appeal followed reported informal talks with Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Supreme Allied Commander in Java.

Sjarifudin, however, denied the talks were connected with his appeal and said British officials had not exerted pressure for discussions on settlement.

Gobs Busy Polishing Ships For Big Navy Day Observance Saturday

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Spit and polish were the watchwords today as thousands of gobs holystoned the 48 warships which will take part in the presidential review of the fleet in tomorrow's huge Navy Day spectacle.

All the naval vessels, including the mighty U. S. S. Missouri and the carrier Midway, were anchored in their review positions in the Hudson river, awaiting President Truman's tour aboard the destroyer Renshaw.

As the President passes each ship he will get a 21-gun salute. "The Mighty Mo," scene of the Japanese surrender in Tokyo bay, will fire three presidential salutes from its forward five-inchers.

Even the war shipping administration vessels in New York harbor were being polished up today. These 300 vessels as well as 4,000 other WSA-directed ships all over the world, were ordered yesterday to dress ship tomorrow as a tribute to the greatest navy in history.

Truman And Attlee Reported To Be Ready To Make Statement Soon

ARABS THREATEN AMERICA

Cancellation Of U. S. Oil Concessions Threatened For 'Anti-Arab' Stand

LONDON, Oct. 26—An official source said today that an agreement between President Truman and Premier Attlee on the Arab-Jewish controversy in Palestine probably will be announced next week.

From Cairo, meantime came a roundabout report that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia has summoned an American representative to Jeddah and informed him that the Saudi government will cancel American oil concessions if Mr. Truman continued an "anti-Arab" stand.

Arab sources in both Cairo and London had nothing to support the report, but said such a move would not surprise them. One Arab spokesman said that Saudi Arabia might break diplomatic relations with the United States if the President continued to favor the Jews.

In predicting an early announcement of Anglo-American agreement on the Palestine question, the official London informant said Mr. Truman and Attlee had been in close contact on the matter for some time.

The spokesman said Attlee would make a full statement on the purported agreement in common with the next few days. The statement first was scheduled to be made this week, but probably was delayed by the fact that Mr. Truman must agree on the date of the announcement.

No details of the supposed agreement were known here.

However, the diplomatic correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph said Britain may appeal to the United Nations to acknowledge that the Palestine problem was one which concerns them all.

Britain's attitude was said to be that Jewish immigration to Palestine was a question which affected Jews all over the world. Therefore, the Britons contended, all nations should contribute to the solution of the problem.

A spokesman for the Jewish agency said it was standing firmly by its demands for abrogation of the British white paper limiting immigration to Palestine and for admission of 100,000 European Jews to the Holy Land.

Parliamentary circles believed would not perpetuate the white paper, although his statement may announce only a temporary (Continued on Page Two)

ATOMIC BOMB WORKER CLAIMS HEALTH RUINED

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 26—A former atomic bomb worker, who said his health had been impaired permanently as a result of his work at the Richland, Wash., bomb plant, sought damages today from E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Co. Inc.

Robert F. Rickman filed suit in federal court asking $119,034 damages for loss of his earning capacity and additional money judgment for treatment of pain and discomfort.

Rickman's petition said he had contracted a lung ailment while working at the plant.

Under oath not to disclose his exact duties, Rickman, said he was the only "unmasked" person in the workroom where he was employed. The fact that he worked without a mask, he said, was responsible for his lung condition.

Rickman said he had become a patrolman for Du Pont at Pasco, Wash., in May, 1944, and a short time later was transferred to a position inside the Richland reservation, (Continued on Page Two)

U. S., Red Relations Improved

Solution May Be Near On Differences Over Jap Control Setup

BY R. H. SHACKFORD

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Soviet-American relations took a brighter turn today with revelation that the two countries may be near solution of their differences over control machinery for Japan.

The solution may produce for Japan the type of control council now existing in the Balkans—with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as chairman of a four-power council and final arbiter in event of disagreement. The Russians have such a position in the Balkan councils.

Ever since his return from London, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes had given the impression that the Soviet-American dispute was almost hopelessly deadlocked; that Russia had proposed a four-power control council for Japan just like the one in Germany; that the United States had rejected it unequivocally.

Now Byrnes reveals that it is not a closed issue and that he has been consulting with the Russians on it. He further indicated that he and the Russians may not be nearly so far apart as believed earlier.

This development also raised official hope here that Russia will have a representative at the first meeting of the Far Eastern advisory commission next Tuesday—a new organization to recommend policy for Japan. Russia is the only one of the 10-nation members which has not yet named a representative.

Soviet-American relations can stand a good shot in the arm. They have been deteriorating ever since the London foreign ministers conference. Agreement on control machinery for Japan at the same time could strengthen the U. S. position in the Balkans and eastern Europe.

ENGLISH COAST HIT BY MINES

Explosives Washed Ashore During Storm Cause Widespread Damage

LONDON, Oct. 26—Exploding mines washed up by a gale raging through its fourth day caused damage reminiscent of the German air raids along the south coast of England today.

Mountainous seas cast up mines at scattered points all along the shore. Sections were roped off awaiting naval disposal squads assigned to handle the mines.

Explosions at Shoreham near Brighton and near Victoria pier at Folkestone blasted windows for 500 yards inland and strewn wide areas with shattered glass and other debris.

Scores of ships took up positions along the coast in hope of riding out the storm which disrupted channel shipping. At least 40 were beached off Deal in the straits of Dover, several dragging anchors and endangering themselves and others.

The U. S. hospital ship John H. Meaney, a 10,000 tonner, had a narrow escape yesterday when it dragged anchor for a mile down a line of ships before nosing windward and securing anchor. Today its anchor grip slipped again, and the ship threatened to collide with a Norwegian tanker. Both managed to shift to new berths.

A violent explosion in the channel during the night indicated that the danger from mines was not limited to positions ashore.

Lifeboats were called out during the night to rescue the crews of the 710-ton sloop Saltburn and the admiral's tug Swarthby. Both sent distress signals after hitting the boom across the spithead between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight.

BRITON STATES EUROPE FACES 'TERRIFIC LOSS'

Russia Is Criticized For Failure To Work With Other Nations

APPEALS FOR U. S. HELP

Foreign Secretary Claims Situation May Be Worse Than During War

LONDON, Oct. 26—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today that Europe was threatened by mass starvation this winter unless something could be done quickly about a desperate situation which by implication he attributed in part to Russian policy.

Bevin in a speech to commons appealed urgently to the allies to furnish food to Europe, regardless of their differences in other matters.

"Hunger and privation may bring further terrific loss to Europe more devastating than guns or even the atomic bomb," he said.

Observing that the U. S. congress had before it proposals to allot $1,800,000 for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, Bevin said:

"If that vote is not carried the UNRRA will be broken, and the situation facing us in a few weeks time would be disastrous."

Although Britain's economic condition is "difficult," he said, the British have agreed to provide UNRRA an amount equivalent to that of the United States, approximately one per cent of the British national income.

In his carefully worded speech, Bevin implied criticism of Russia on these points:

1. He said Europe's inland waterways, traffic arteries vital to the relief program, could be cleared without "endangering Russia one iota" if business of "strategy and spheres of influence" could be dropped from the picture. He recalled that U. S. proposals in that direction were stalled at the foreign ministers' conference.

2. He said eastern and middle Europe normally should furnish food for the remainder of the continent.

3. Reporting that some 14,000,000 persons still were moving about Europe and 25,000,000 were being fed by the British, he said the number of Germans "who have gone to work" in Russia was unknown. "Only the Russians know that. When we get people into the western zone, there is an overwhelming majority of women and children, but no men."

"I hope and trust and long for the day when all nations will put their trust in a world organization," he said, "because I do not think that frontiers and spheres of influence are so important as they used to be with the developments of science."

"But there it is. The only way you can solve it is to gradually drift away from the smoke of war. I am not hopeful of that, in spite of difficulties that will develop before long."

GEORGE TOWERS IS APPOINTEE TO WEST POINT

George Towers, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Towers, East Union street, has been named an alternate to the West Point Military Academy.

Young Towers is now serving with the Army and is stationed at Camp Roberts, California. He probably will be assigned to a prep school at Amherst, N. J. He is a 1945 graduate of Circleville high school.

The appointment was made through the efforts of Congressman Walter Brehm.

ARMED GUARDS MAY SURROUND ATOMIC EXPERTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Two senators called today for special armed guards to protect America's atomic bomb experts against kidnapping and extortion.

Acting Chairman Edwin C. Johnson, D. Colo., of the senate military affairs committee, believed the scientists would "let themselves be shot" before divulging the bomb producing secrets.

Nevertheless, he said, they should be under guard to keep them from being exposed to any such danger. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R. Ia., agreed.

"If there are men who know the entire formula," Johnson said, "they certainly should be protected. Bandits might get hold of them and exact the secret; enemy agents might get hold of them."

Other senate sources familiar with the views of leading bomb scientists revealed that some of them were worried about possible threats to their safety.

LONDON, Oct. 26—Exploding mines washed up by a gale raging through its fourth day caused damage reminiscent of the German air raids along the south coast of England today.

Mountainous seas cast up mines at scattered points all along the shore. Sections were roped off awaiting naval disposal squads assigned to handle the mines.

Explosions at Shoreham near Brighton and near Victoria pier at Folkestone blasted windows for 500 yards inland and strewn wide areas with shattered glass and other debris.

Scores of ships took up positions along the coast in hope of riding out the storm which disrupted channel shipping. At least 40 were bunched off Deal in the straits of Dover, several dragging anchors and endangering themselves and others.

The U. S. hospital ship John H. Meaney, a 10,000-tonner, had a narrow escape yesterday when it dragged anchor for a mile down a line of ships before nosing windward and securing anchor. Today its anchor grip slipped again, and the ship threatened to collide with a Norwegian tanker. Both managed to shift to new berths.

A violent explosion in the channel during the night indicated that the danger from mines was not limited to positions ashore.

Lifeboats were called out during the night to rescue the crews of the 710-ton sloop Saltburn and the admiral's tug Swarthby. Both sent distress signals after hitting the boom across the spithead between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight.

BRITON STATES EUROPE FACES 'TERRIFIC LOSS'

Russia Is Criticized For Failure To Work With Other Nations

APPEALS FOR U. S. HELP

Foreign Secretary Claims Situation May Be Worse Than During War

LONDON, Oct. 26—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today that Europe was threatened by mass starvation this winter unless something could be done quickly about a desperate situation which by implication he attributed in part to Russian policy.

Bevin in a speech to commons appealed urgently to the allies to furnish food to Europe, regardless of their differences in other matters.

"Hunger and privation may bring further terrific loss to Europe more devastating than guns or even the atomic bomb," he said. Observing that the U. S. congress had before it proposals to allot $1,800,000 for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, Bevin said:

"If that vote is not carried the UNRRA will be broken, and the situation facing us in a few weeks time would be disastrous."

Although Britain's economic condition is "difficult," he said, the British have agreed to provide UNRRA an amount equivalent to that of the United States, approximately one per cent of the British national income.

In his carefully worded speech, Bevin implied criticism of Russia on these points:

1. He said Europe's inland waterways, traffic arteries vital to the relief program, could be cleared without "endangering Russia one iota" if business of "strategy and spheres of influence" could be dropped from the picture. He recalled that U. S. proposals in that direction were stalled at the foreign ministers' conference.

2. He said eastern and middle Europe normally should furnish food for the remainder of the continent.

3. Reporting that some 14,000,000 persons still were moving about Europe and 25,000,000 were being fed by the British, he said the number of Germans "who have gone to work" in Russia was unknown. "Only the Russians know that. When we get people into the western zone, there is an overwhelming majority of women and children, but no men."

"I hope and trust and long for the day when all nations will put their trust in a world organization," he said, "because I do not think that frontiers and spheres of influence are so important as they used to be with the developments of science."

"But there it is. The only way you can solve it is to gradually drift away from the smoke of war. I am not unhopeful of that, in spite of difficulties that will develop before long."

GEORGE TOWERS IS APPOINTEE TO WEST POINT

George Towers, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Towers, East Union street, has been named an alternate to the West Point Military Academy.

Young Towers is now serving with the Army and is stationed at Camp Roberts, California. He probably will be assigned to a prep school at Amherst, N. J. He is a 1945 graduate of Circleville high school.

The appointment was made through the efforts of Congressman Walter Brehm.

A brother, Jake Towers, formerly attended West Point.

PEACEFUL USE OF ATOM ASKED BY KING GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 26—King George said last night scientists held their greatest responsibility of all time for the humane development of atomic energy.

The King, in an address before the centenary celebration of the Imperial college of Science and Technology, said he hoped "wisdom may be found before it is too late" to use atomic fission to promote peace and raise living standards throughout the world.

"The world faces destruction on a scale history never dreamed of," he said.

He said that in the hands of the assembled scientists and students lay "not only opportunity but a responsibility greater than men of science have ever known before."

"Therefore," he continued, "insure so far as in you lies, that science may never be put to uses which offend the higher conscience of mankind."

The King praised British science for "outstanding its enemies in every vital respect" despite limited resources.

PRIEST ROUTS ROBBERS WITH FAST SHOOTING

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25—There are times when the church must become the church militant, and three thieves who tried to steal from St. John the Baptist Church here early today found that Father Rocco Petrarca is a man who can translate the policy into action—with bullets.

Father Petrarca, who is also an inventor and tinkerer with electrical devices, routed the robbers with three shots after they had run afoul of one of the many burglar alarms protecting the church and the priest's residence.

The burglars were foiled in their efforts to steal money which parishioners leave in payment for altar candles. A sum of $25 to $30 is usually in the container. They first failed to open a window of the church, then went to the front door, forced the lock and pried open the door.

"I shot three times in the street," he said "I saw them run out the side door of the church. There must have been two or three of them, but it was so dark I didn't hit any of them."

was served on him in the same cell a week ago today.

He had declined to receive visits from either a Catholic or a Protestant chaplain—visits that were awaited eagerly by such other prisoners as Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering, former foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and others.

The suicide was not discovered until 8:10 p. m. yesterday, probably a half hour or more after Ley knotted the towel around his neck.

A guard had passed the cell and peered inside five times every two minutes during that time. Glumping Ley's feet hanging from the toilet seat, the guard did not think anything amiss at first. The rest of the body was concealed by the cell door.

Only when he thought Ley had remained on the toilet too long did the guard become suspicious and summon the corporal of the guard.

When the soldiers entered the cell, they found Ley's body was suspended from the flushing lever overhead.

A German physician, Dr. Ludwig Plucker, was rushed to the cell. He injected one cubic centimeter of cardiazol and one cubic centimeter of Globulin, then applied artificial respiration, but was unable to revive Ley.

The suicide thwarted the most elaborate security regulations ever taken to insure safe delivery of a criminal to a court of justice.

Prisoners were permitted no possession which the army felt could be used for suicide. Penknives, keys, coins, spectacles—everything that might produce a cutting edge—was taken from them.

Even light bulbs were removed from the cells and cellophane was substituted for glass in windows. A barber shaved the prisoners with a safety razor, and he returned the blades to a prison officer after completing his rounds.

The precautions were instituted several months ago after Hans Frank, former gauleiter of Poland, slashed his wrist in a suicide attempt. Speedy medical attention thwarted the death attempt, and Frank now is one of the most docile and cheerful of the prisoners.

The 55-year-old Ley was captured May 15 by the 101st air-borne division at a mountain hideaway 45 miles south of Berchtesgaden on a tip from the German underground. Ley attempted to swallow a vial of poison at that time, but was not quick enough.

At Nuernberg Ley has been among the most sullen of the accused war criminals. He was one of the few to maintain his loyalty to Adolf Hitler long after his capture.

Ley rose from a ward heeler in the Nazi party organization to all-powerful chief of the labor front with authority over all German workers. He also headed the Bund der Auslandsdeutsche, which gave orders to German bundists in the United States and other foreign countries.

To him in large part went the task of mobilizing labor for the German war effort. He also was assigned the civilian defense of Breslau and Berlin in the closing stages of the war.

In the war crimes indictment, he was charged with crimes against both peace and humanity, "including more particularly the abuse and exploitation of human beings for forced labor in the conduct of aggressive war."

NEW HALLOWEEN WARNING GIVEN

erty, he will be taken to court," he said.

The sheriff's office reported two instances of early Halloween "prank-playing" at Duval and at Atlanta Thursday night. The names of the boys engaged in the incident at Atlanta have been taken down by the sheriff.

"There were nine boys, averaging in age from 14 to 18 engaged in the incident at Atlanta. They were driving in a Pontiac coupe," the sheriff's office reported.

"It's all right to get out and have a little fun, but there is no excuse for destroying property. Those who do not heed this warning will be taken to court," the sheriff's department stated.

"Those who play pranks often take advantage of someone who is nervous or sick. Some of them are not juveniles. They are all running the risk of getting shot at by aggravating the wrong person," the sheriff's department asserted.

"We have no objection to the kids having a little fun, but destruction of property such as the country and city property and highway signs, and the placing of obstructions in the highways will not be tolerated. Those caught will be prosecuted, the sheriff's office declared.

"The placing of obstructions in the highway is especially dangerous. Should a wreck occur in which a death resulted, the persons who placed the obstructions in the highway would be liable to a manslaughter charge."

"Last year, someone placed a pile of fodder in the road and put a steel gate under it. A man came along in his car and hit it and was thrown out of his car. The gate was destroyed. A box with a rock in it was found on the highway. This could have caused a serious wreck as it is the natural tendency for motorists to run over boxes and such along the highway," a deputy reported.

Summing up the whole situation, the deputy said: "The kids should stop and think before doing some of the things they do. They should realize before they play these dangerous pranks that someone may be seriously injured. And before they burn up a farmer's fodder, they should think about all the hard work that went into producing it. Destruction of this fodder and the corn is a serious property loss to the farmer."

If the kids stop and think, they should be able to confine themselves to harmless fun, at least not so-called "fun" that endangers lives or destroys hard-earned property."

AUTOS COLLIDE

Two vehicles were damaged slightly, but no one was injured in an accident which occurred at 6:15 a. m. Friday, one-half mile north of South Bloomfield. The driver of a Packard sedan, Fred B. Robinson, Columbus, had stopped in the traffic lane after two bolts had come loose and a wheel came off his car, when the car was struck by a truck driven by Herbert A. Cummins, Ashville, the sheriff's office reported.

Plenty Of New Tires Due Soon

situation will get better early next year."

Firestone's Thomas expressed the hope that the tires-for-every body period will be reached in February.

Both officials said their companies were now operating at 75 per cent of capacity but could operate at 100 per cent if their employees would go from their present 36-hour week to a 48-hour week. Even under these conditions, some additional workers were needed, they said.

Pretty much the same situation prevailed at the General Tire and Rubber company, said Charles J. Jahant, production vice president. However, he attributed still another reason for the company's failure to reach capacity—slow delivery of molds and other equipment which have been on order since before VJ-day.

Thomas of Goodyear charged that the rubber workers union (CIO) had set an informal policy under which its members were "deliberately" limiting their production.

"The union won't admit this policy," Thomas asserted, "but we know it's there. We think the men can do 15 to 20 per cent more work than they are doing."

He charged that "essentially the same" policy was pursued during the war.

Asked what the union did about any member who produced beyond the alleged quota, Thomas replied: "He wouldn't lead to happy a life."

C. V. Wheeler, head of the Goodyear URW local, when apprised of Thomas' charges, denied any deliberate slow-down by union members. Instead he made the counter-charge that the company was engaging in a production speed-up campaign.

According to Thomas, the URW had presented demands on the industry for overtime pay over six hours a day and over 30 hours a week. In addition he said, the unions want a flat increase of 30 cents an hour; a differential of 10 cents an hour for night work; double-time for holidays if worked and straight time if not, and a liberal sick leave policy on top of two weeks vacation with pay.

Wheeler, speaking for the Goodyear URW local, said that the industry was in a position to meet the wage increases without difficulty. He pointed out that during the war, over 30 per cent of the payroll represented over-time "and there's no reason why the companies can't pay it now." Furthermore, he claimed, the tire companies have raised the price of first line tires from a pre-war average of $7 or $8 to $15 or $16.

Tire company officials contended that the OPA has allowed them only a three per cent increase over pre-war prices for passenger tires and five per cent for truck tires.

rary solution of the problem. There was no official confirmation of reports he might permit 25,000 Jews to enter Palestine.

Arab circles continued to demand that Britain limit immigration, and more than 1,000 desert sheiks, Arab youth leaders and leading business men held a mass meeting in Jaffa today to discuss their stand.

Resolutions were adopted calling for enforcement of a boycott on Jewish-manufactured goods, urging all Arab countries to impose protective tariffs and endorsing a proposal to establish an Arab agricultural settlement in Palestine.

The meeting also demanded disarmament and disbandment of Jewish organizations.

POLISH UNITY SETUP DEMANDED BY 'STRONG MAN'

WARSAW, Oct. 21—(delayed)—First Vice-Premier Wladyslaw Gomułka, general secretary of the Polish Communist party, demanded today that all Polish "democratic" parties unite in presenting a single list of non-competitive candidates at the forthcoming general election.

At the same time, he attacked Second Vice-Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, head of the Polish peasant party and favorite minister of Britain and the United States, as a tool of the reactionaries. Political observers estimate that 60 per cent of the Polish people support Mikolajczyk's party.

Gomułka, generally regarded as the "strong man" of the present Polish provisional government of national unity, laid down his challenge to Mikolajczyk in a fiery speech before the Warsaw branch of the Polish workers' party.

Wheeler, speaking for the Goodyear URW local, said that the industry was in a position to meet the wage increases without difficulty. He pointed out that during the war, over 30 per cent of the payroll represented over-time "and there's no reason why the companies can't pay it now." NEW HALLOWEEN WARNING GIVEN

erty, he will be taken to court," he said.

The sheriff's office reported two instances of early Halloween "prank-playing" at Duval and at Atlanta Thursday night. The names of the boys engaged in the incident at Atlanta have been taken down by the sheriff.

"There were nine boys, averaging in age from 14 to 18 engaged in the incident at Atlanta. They were driving in a Pontiac coupe," the sheriff's office reported.

"It's all right to get out and have a little fun, but there is no excuse for destroying property. Those who do not heed this warning will be taken to court," the sheriff's department stated.

"Those who play pranks often take advantage of someone who is nervous or sick. Some of them are not juveniles. They are all running the risk of getting shot at by aggravating the wrong person," the sheriff's department asserted.

"We have no objection to the kids having a little fun, but destruction of property such as the country and city property and highway signs, and the placing of obstructions in the highways will not be tolerated. Those caught will be prosecuted, the sheriff's office declared.

"The placing of obstructions in the highway is especially dangerous. Should a wreck occur in which a death resulted, the persons who placed the obstructions in the highway would be liable to a manslaughter charge."

"Last year, someone placed a pile of fodder in the road and put a steel gate under it. A man came along in his car and hit it and was thrown out of his car. The gate was destroyed. A box with a rock in it was found on the highway. This could have caused a serious wreck as it is the natural tendency for motorists to run over boxes and such along the highway," a deputy reported.

Summing up the whole situation, the deputy said: "The kids should stop and think before doing some of the things they do. They should realize before they play these dangerous pranks that someone may be seriously injured. And before they burn up a farmer's fodder, they should think about all the hard work that went into producing it. Destruction of this fodder and the corn is a serious property loss to the farmer. If the kids stop and think, they should be able to confine themselves to harmless fun, at least not so-called 'fun' that endangers lives or destroys hard-earned property."

A German physician, Dr. Ludwig Pflucker, was rushed to the cell. He injected one cubic centimeter of cardiazol and one cubic centimeter of Globulin, then applied artificial respiration, but was unable to revive Ley.

The suicide thwarted the most elaborate security regulations ever taken to insure safe delivery of a criminal to a court of justice.

Prisoners were permitted no possession which the army felt could be used for suicide. Penknives, keys, coins, spectacles—everything that might produce a cutting edge—was taken from them.

Even light bulbs were removed from the cells and cellophane was substituted for glass in windows. A barber shaved the prisoners with a safety razor, and he returned the blades to a prison officer after completing his rounds.

The precautions were instituted several months ago after Hans Frank, former gauleiter of Poland, slashed his wrist in a suicide attempt. Speedy medical attention thwarted the death attempt, and Frank now is one of the most docile and cheerful of the prisoners.

The 55-year-old Ley was captured May 15 by the 101st air-borne division at a mountain hideaway 45 miles south of Berchtesgaden on a tip from the German underground. Ley attempted to swallow a vial of poison at that time, but was not quick enough.

At Nuernberg Ley has been among the most sullen of the accused war criminals. He was one of the few to maintain his loyalty to Adolf Hitler long after his capture.

Ley rose from a ward heeler in the Nazi party organization to all-powerful chief of the labor front with authority over all German workers. He also headed the Bund der Auslandsdeutsche, which gave orders to German bundists in the United States and other foreign countries.

To him in large part went the task of mobilizing labor for the German war effort. He also was assigned the civilian defense of Breslau and Berlin in the closing stages of the war.

In the war crimes indictment, he was charged with crimes against both peace and humanity, "including more particularly the abuse and exploitation of human beings for forced labor in the conduct of aggressive war."

AUTOS COLLIDE

Two vehicles were damaged slightly, but no one was injured in an accident which occurred at 6:15 a. m. Friday, one-half mile north of South Bloomfield. The driver of a Packard sedan, Fred B. Robinson, Columbus, had stopped in the traffic lane after two bolts had come loose and a wheel came off his car, when the car was struck by a truck driven by Herbert A. Cummins, Ashville, the sheriff's office reported.

situation will get better early next year."

Firestone's Thomas expressed the hope that the three-for-every body period will be reached in February.

Both officials said their companies were now operating at 75 per cent of capacity but could operate at 100 per cent if their present 36-hour week to a 48-hour week. Even under these conditions, some additional workers were needed, they said.

Pretty much the same situation prevailed at the General Tire and Rubber company, said Charles J. Jahant, production vice president. However, he attributed still another reason for the company's failure to reach capacity—slow delivery of molds and other equipment which have been on order since before V-J-day.

Thomas of Goodyear charged that the rubber workers union (CIO) had set an informal policy under which its members were "deliberately" limiting their production.

"The union won't admit this policy," Thomas asserted, "but we know it's there. We think the men can do 15 to 20 per cent more work than they are doing."

He charged that "essentially the same" policy was pursued during the war.

Asked what the union did about any member who produced beyond the alleged quota, Thomas replied: "He wouldn't lead to happy a life."

C. V. Wheeler, head of the Goodyear URW local, when apprised of Thomas' charges, denied any deliberate slow-down by union members. Instead he made the counter charge that the company was engaging in a production speed-up campaign.

According to Thomas, the URW had presented demands on the industry for overtime pay over six hours a day and over 30 hours a week. In addition he said, the unions want a flat increase of 30 cents an hour; a differential of 10 cents an hour for night work; double-time for holidays if worked and straight time if not, and a liberal sick leave policy on top of two weeks vacation with pay.

Wheeler, speaking for the Goodyear URW local, said that the industry was in a position to meet the wage increases without difficulty. He pointed out that during the war, over 30 per cent of the payroll represented overtime "and there's no reason why the companies can't pay it now." Furthermore, he claimed, the tire companies have raised the price of first line tires from a pre-war average of $7 or $8 to $15 or $16.

Tire company officials contended that the OPA has allowed them only a three per cent increase over pre-war prices for passenger tires and five per cent for truck tires.

rary solution of the problem. There was no official confirmation of reports he might permit 25,000 Jews to enter Palestine.

Arab circles continued to demand that Britain limit immigration, and more than 1,000 desert sheiks, Arab youth leaders and leading business men held a mass meeting in Jaffa today to discuss their stand.

Resolutions were adopted calling for enforcement of a boycott on Jewish-manufactured goods, urging all Arab countries to impose protective tariffs and endorsing a proposal to establish an Arab agricultural settlement in Palestine.

The meeting also demanded disarmament and disbandment of Jewish organizations.

At the same time, he attacked Second Vice-Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, head of the Polish peasant party and favorite minister of Britain and the United States, as a tool of the reactionaries. Political observers estimate that 60 per cent of the Polish people support Mikolajczyk's party

RAINBOW VETS TO MEET SUNDAY

Chillicothe To Be Host To Members From Circleville And Other Communities

Several Circleville and Pickaway county veterans who served with the famous "Rainbow Division" in World War 1 are expected to attend when the Chillicothe veterans of the Division are hosts to other Rainbow Division veterans of Southern Ohio for the "Reunion Meeting," Sunday.

The Rainbow Comrades of Co. H, 166th Infantry, of the Original Rainbow Division, which was formed as Company H, 4th Ohio National Guard Infantry, in Chillicothe, Ohio, are in charge of arrangements for the meeting. Commanded by Fred Pinney, the Chapter's 1st Vice President is Chairman of the Committee on arrangements, and his committee is made up of the 10 Co. H. veterans and the 5 Co. G veterans who are members of the Greenfield, Ohio, Chapter and resides in Chillicothe, Ohio.

This is the first Rainbow "Home Coming" for Rainbow Veterans living in and around Chillicothe, and for those who served in Co. H, since 1930, when Chillicothe had a strong Chapter of the Rainbow Division Veterans Association. Chillicothe was host city for one Ohio State Reunion.

This meeting to be held in the State Armory, will be an all day "reunion", with a Chapter meeting in the afternoon. A social hour will follow. The Ladies Auxiliary will meet also, in a different room, and will join for the social activities. All Rainbow Vets, and ladies are invited.

Veterans from 10 companies of the regiment and 18 Cities of Ohio attended the meeting at Greenfield, Ohio, September 9, 1945.

This meeting is open to all Rainbow Division veterans of Southern Ohio. This is Ohio's only active chapter in Southwestern Ohio, except the Cincinnati Chapter—and is Ohio's largest chapter.

BRONZE STAR IS PRESENTED TO WALTER NELSON

Award of the Bronze Star Medal to Warrant Officer (1st) Walter H. Nelson Jr. of Circleville, for meritorious service in connection with military operations against the enemy has been announced by Brig. Gen. Albert F. Hegenberger, commanding general, Tenth Air Force in China.

A member of the Twelfth Air Service Group, now assigned to the Tenth Air Force to assist in the redeployment of Chinese troops since the Japanese surrender. Mr. Nelson was awarded the medal by the Fourteenth Air Force for service between May and October 1944. The Twelfth group, known throughout China as the "Service Commandos," served units of the Fourteenth for nearly two years, operating advanced air bases and providing supply and maintenance for combat organizations. It was the first complete air service group to enter the China theater.

During the period of the award, the Twelfth was stationed at various bases throughout east China which had to be evacuated and destroyed during the Jap drive to split China and establish lines of communication to Indo-China and Burma. American bases were heavily bombed at that time.

Mr. Nelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Nelson, 718 South Court Street. A graduate of Circleville high school, he attended Purdue University before entering the army in February 1943. He served at Patterson Field, Ohio, Biggs Field, Texas, and Albuquerque, N. M., before embarking for overseas duty in November 1943. The news was received from the headquarters of the Tenth Air Force in China.

MAN'S PRESENT TASK

IF we civilized men in this modern world have only escaped, like ancient Job, "by the skin of our teeth," what should be said and done regarding the Nazi war prisoners indicted and now facing trial before the world? Surely their betrayal of humanity was the greatest of modern times, and possibly the greatest and most condemnable in the records of human progress.

The New York Times observes that the two dozen Nazi leaders now facing an international bar of justice would be on top if Germany had won the war, and the honest and responsible members of our International Military Tribunal would be facing firing squads.

It is not in a spirit of vengeance that the Nazi leaders have been indicted and are doomed to a historic punishment, but as part of an essential cleansing, to eliminate destroyers of civilization and give mankind a more secure opportunity for life and progress. The fate of the human race, in these coming years, may be precarious at best; but it must have every possible chance to confirm and maintain throughout this present world an assured reign of human justice and opportunity for men of honor and faith. This seems to be the most important task that mankind has at present.

TINKERING

IT is with great relief that a tinkering nation finds wartime restrictions eased up, and such essentials as nails, screws, screw drivers, and even tools to operate them, creeping back into the market again.

One of the worst deprivations of the war era was the sad lack of such things. Millions of men and boys who inherited or developed a love for such pursuits grew more and more discouraged, as their private workshops were raided by desperate friends, neighbors, carpenters, plumbers, and so on. A hammer has been known to be rated at almost its weight in silver, and a saw blade almost its weight in gold and platinum.

The situation hasn't really loosened up much yet, but is on its way. And it probably requires no secret tips for parents, in countless homes, as to what to buy for Christmas—if they can get it.

Speaking of "atrocities trials," the Nazi war has been one long atrocity, and certainly a trial.

It is a question which had fewer friends, Laval or Hitler.

The next door neighbor thinks that tires are so called because they tire easily.

The Germans now blame everything on the Russians, but that shouldn't fool Americans.

Isolation is as dangerous in a nation as in an individual.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Mixed interpretations followed by the French election in which De Gaulle won a victory for socialism and democratic reorganization while the Communists won a plurality of the assembly.

The analyses we are being furnished are about as confused as if the Communists were to win a plurality in our congress against our Democrat and Republican combined majority, turned socialist (if you can imagine this.) No prognosticator could be sure of what would happen then. We would be forced to await developments.

Reserved pleasure nevertheless is noticeable here among those who know the French situation intimately. The Popular Republican movement (141 assembly seats) is largely representative of 'church sentiment in France and will never embrace Communism. In fact, the Pope in addressing Italian women the day of the French election, rather urged them to the democratic form of socialism and spoke clearly against the totalitarian (dictator) socialism which is Communism.

He also advised Italian women to get into politics, no doubt appreciating their primary interest in the home and the reliance of their lives upon the finer non-political phases of life, which makes them less easy prey for communistic capture.

The French Socialist party (142 seats) which won second place in the assembly, has about the same ideology as the popular Republican movement, without the church. It's absorption of a group called "Union of Republican Democratic Socialists" shows about what it is.

These two parties, if combined, easily can run the government, with their joint total of 83 seats against the Communists' 152. In fact, if you count in the minor parties below these big three, who are likely to work with De Gaulle, a possible democratic socialist majority of about two to one can be found.

This prospect no doubt explains the excessive silence of the Communists since their "victory." Their French party operates about like ours, on wires from Moscow. Authorities here have not discovered that Moscow threw any gold into the election campaign, although money has proved useful in French politics of the past.

The Communists have control of the French labor leaders, however, and may not have thought they needed to use money otherwise. Their assembly plurality was gained exclusively from factory districts. But the farm districts being church, and the white collar classes largely democratic socialists, a clear majority of French interests seem assuredly fortified to meet the future communist campaign to capture France.

The Communists, unquestionably, feel they are just beginning. They have increased their power from 47 seats they held before the war by three times now. They are in a position to harass and impede a coalition socialist government with their usual pressure politics, strikes and such action, in anticipation of the day when they will take over the democratic processes, abolish the assembly and operate strictly totalitarian in accord with Moscow doctrine.

Against that hope, however, is erected the election co-result crushing the old radical socialist party of corrupt politicians with whom they played ball on the inside.

DIET AND HEALTH

Disorder Affecting The Lymph Glands

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE are a number of serious disorders which affect the lymph glands throughout the body. These glands aid in combating infections. There is, however, a more or less harmless or benign condition known as infectious mononucleosis which also affects the lymph glands in the body. This disease is also called glandular fever.

It is a disorder which comes on suddenly, producing many symptoms such as fever, sore throat, enlargement of the lymph glands, the spleen and the liver, and an increase in the number of white cells in the blood known as lymphocytes.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of this condition is not known. However, there are some who suspect that it may be due to an infection with such germs as the streptococcus, staphylococcus or perhaps a virus, that is, an organism so small that it will pass through the openings in a porcelain filter.

The disease may occur at any time of life, but most of those affected are either children or young adults. Men seem to have the condition more often than women. The disease seems to be more prevalent in the springtime.

Several Types

Several types of infectious mononucleosis have been described. In one type, the lymph gland enlargement is the most noticeable symptom. In the second type, sore throat and fever are outstanding. In the third type there is fever, headache, a feeling of sickness and a skin rash. The disorder may be mild or severe. Sometimes it may persist for weeks or months.

In some instances, there may be stiff neck, diarrhea, pains in the joints, nosebleed, itching of the skin and earache. In two out of three patients, enlargement of the spleen can be detected.

Paul-Bunnell Test

There is a test known as the Paul-Bunnell reaction, which may be carried out to aid in making a diagnosis. The test is made by mixing the blood cells from sheep with the blood serum from patients suspected of having infectious mononucleosis. If the disease is present, the blood serum will cause the red cells to form into clumps.

Up to the present time no particular type of treatment for infectious mononucleosis has been discovered which will speed recovery. On the other hand, the disease is rarely, if ever, a dangerous one, but knowledge of it is important because of the likelihood of confusing it with other more serious conditions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M.: Is it all right to get a permanent wave in the eighth month of pregnancy? Would it harm the baby?

Answer: There is apparently no reason why a permanent wave should not be given at the eighth month of pregnancy. It certainly would not affect the baby in any way.

B. C.: I have had my eyes examined and was told that I have spots on the lens of my eyes. What can be done for this condition?

Answer: It is possible that you have what is known as congenital cataracts, and that some operative treatment will be needed to remove the difficulty. A physician should be consulted concerning the advisability of such an operation.

YOU CAN FIGURE IT OUT

THERE ARE times when careful thought will enable you to see away ahead and figure out exactly what will happen if you play one way, also exactly what will occur if you make a different move. Planning in advance like that is one of the principal marks of the fine cardman. In comparison, the rank and file of players are mainly estimators, even in spots where the information is available to calculate the exact situation.

Here we had a splendid example of how bridge talent is sometimes inherited. George Reith, Jr., son of the great contract authority who died a half a dozen years ago, did his father proud in the tournament on which this deal proved crucial. Both he and his partner in the South, David S. Gibson, of Plainfield, N. J., are fellows who figure things out.

When the diamond J was led, the Q being allowed to win, then the K also being ducked, Mr.

Gibson made clear deductions from East's failure to return the suit. Knowing that East was now out of diamonds, the heart J was won by the A instead of the Q being finessed. That decided the issue.

Mr. Gibson reckoned that, if the finesse lost, West could knock out the diamond A on the return. Then, if he tried for the needed spade trick to give him a total of nine, West, surely with the A for his bid, could get in and run the rest of the diamonds. But, after he won the heart J with the A and led a spade immediately afterward, his game was safe. West took that with the A. If he had then returned a diamond, South could have made an extra trick, with two in spades, one in hearts, one in diamonds and six clubs. But West was smart enough to score his heart K before doing that, and held the declarer to exactly game.

CHAPTER THREE

February 14th
THERE WAS only one person in the room and the only sound to be heard was the scratching of that person's pen as it traced line after line across the paper.

There was no one to read the words that were being traced. If there had been, they would hardly have believed their eyes. For what was being written was a clear carefully detailed project for murder.

There are times when a body is conscious of a mind controlling it—when it bows obedient to that alien something that controls its actions. There are other times when a mind is conscious of owning and controlling a body and accomplishing its purpose by using that body.

The figure sitting writing was in the last named state. It was a mind, a cool controlled intelligence. This mind had only one thought and one purpose—the destruction of another human being. To the end that this purpose might be accomplished, the scheme was being worked out meticulously on paper.

Every eventuality, every possibility was being taken into account. The thing had got to be absolutely fool proof. The scheme, like all good schemes, was not absolutely cut and dried. There were certain alternative actions at certain points. Moreover, since the mind was intelligent, it realized that there must be intelligent provision left for the unforeseen. But the main lines were clear and had been closely tested. The time, the place, the method, the victim! . . .

The figure raised its head. With its hand, it picked up the sheets of paper and read them carefully through. Yes, the thing was crystal clear.

Across the serious face a smile came. It was a smile that was not quite sane. The figure drew a deep breath.

As man was made in the image of his Maker, so there was now a terrible travesty of a Creator's joy.

Yes, everything planned—every one's reaction foretold and allowed for, the good and evil in everybody played upon and brought into harmony with one evil design.

There was one thing lacking still . . .

With a smile the writer traced a date—a date in September.

Then, with a laugh, the paper was torn in pieces and the pieces carried across the room and put into the heart of the glowing fire. There was no carelessness. Every single piece was consumed and destroyed. The plan was now only existent in the brain of its creator.

March 8th

Superintendent Battle was sitting at the breakfast table. His jaw was set in a truculent fashion and he was reading slowly and carefully a letter that his wife had just tearfully handed to him. There was no expression visible on his face, for his face never did register any expression. It had the aspect of a face carved out of wood. It was solid and durable and, in some way, impressive. Superintendent Battle had never suggested brilliance; he was, definitely, not a brilliant man, but he had some other quality, difficult to define, that was nevertheless forceful.

"I can't believe it," said Mrs. Battle, sobbing. "Sylvia!"

Sylvia was the youngest of Superintendent and Mrs. Battle's five children. She was 16 and at school near Maldstone.

The letter was from Miss Amphrey, headmistress of the school in question. It was a clear, kindly and extremely tactful letter. It set out, in black and white, that various small thefts had been puzzling some of the school authorities for some time, that the matter had been at last cleared up and that Sylvia Battle had confessed and that Miss Amphrey would like to see Mr. and Mrs. Battle at the earliest possible opportunity "to discuss the position."

Superintendent Battle folded up the letter, put it in his pocket, and said:

"You leave this to me, Mary."

He got up, walked round the table, patted her on the cheek and said, "Don't worry, dear, it will be all right."

He went from the room leaving comfort and reassurance behind him.

That afternoon, in Miss Amphrey's modern and individualistic drawing room, Superintendent Battle sat very squarely on his chair, his large wooden hands on his knees, confronting Miss Amphrey and managing to look, far more than usual, every inch a policeman.

Miss Amphrey was a very successful headmistress. She had personality—a great deal of personality, she was enlightened and up to date, and she combined discipline with modern ideas of self-determination.

Her room was representative of the spirit of Meadway. Everything was of a cool oatmeal color—there were big jars of daffodils and bowls of tulips and hyacinths. I set a two good copies of the antique Greek, two pieces of advanced modern sculpture, two Italian primitives on the walls. In the midst of all this, Miss Amphrey herself, dressed in a deep shade of blue, with an eager face suggestive of a conscientious greyhound, and clear blue eyes looking serious through thick lenses.

"The important thing," she was saying in her clear well modulated voice, "is that this should be taken the right way. It is the girl herself we have to think of, Mr. Battle. Sylvia herself! It is most important—most important, that her life should not be crippled in any way. She must not be made to assume a burden of guilt—blame must be very sparingly meted out, if at all. We must arrive at the reason behind these quite trivial pilferings. A sense of inferiority, perhaps? She is not good at games, you know—an obscure wish to shine in a different sphere—the desire to assert her ego? We must be very careful. That is why I wanted to see you alone first—to impress upon you to be very, very careful with Sylvia. I repeat again, it's very important to get at what is behind this."

"That, Miss Amphrey," said Superintendent Battle, "is why I have come down."

His voice was quiet, his face unemotional, his eyes surveyed the schoolmistress appraisingly.

"I have been very gentle with her," said Miss Amphrey.

Battle said laconically: "Good of you, Miss Amphrey."

"You see, I really love and understand these young things," Battle did not reply directly. He said:

"I'd like to see my girl now, if you don't mind, Miss Amphrey."

With renewed emphasis Miss

Amphrey admonished him to be careful—to go slow—not to antagonize a child just budding into womanhood.

Superintendent Battle showed no signs of impatience. He just looked blank.

She took him at last to her study. They passed one or two girls in the passages. They stood politely to attention but their eyes were full of curiosity. Having ushered Battle into a small room not quite so redolent of personality as the one downstairs Miss Amphrey withdrew and said she would send Sylvia to him.

Just as she was leaving the room, Battle stopped her.

"One minute, M'am, how did you come to pitch upon Sylvia as the one responsible for these—leakages?"

"My methods, Mr. Battle, were psychological."

Miss Amphrey spoke with dignity.

"Psychological? H'm. What about the evidence, Miss Amphrey?"

"Yes, yes, I quite understand, Mr. Battle—you would feel that way. Your—er—profession steps in. But psychology is beginning to be recognized in criminology. I can assure you that there is no mistake—Sylvia freely admits the whole thing."

Battle nodded.

"Yes, yes—I know that. I was just asking how you came to pitch upon her to begin with."

"Well, Mr. Battle, this business of things being taken out of the girls' lockers was on the increase. I called the school together and told them the facts. At the same time, I studied their faces unobtrusively. Sylvia's expression struck me at once. It was guilty—confused. I knew at that moment who was responsible. I wanted, not to confront her with her guilt, but to get her to admit it herself. I set a little test for her—a word test association."

Battle nodded to show he understood.

"And finally the child admitted it all."

Her father said:

"I see."

Miss Amphrey hesitated a minute, then went out.

Battle was standing looking out of the window when the door opened again.

He turned around slowly and looked at his daughter.

Sylvia stood just inside the door which she had closed behind her. She was tall, dark, angular. Her face was sullen and bore marks of tears. She said timidly rather than defiantly:

"Well, here I am."

Battle looked at her thoughtfully for a minute or two. He sighed.

"I should never have sent you to this place," he said. "That woman's a fool."

Sylvia lost sight of her own problems in sheer amazement.

"Miss Amphrey? Oh, but she's wonderful! We all think so."

"H'm," said Battle. "Can't be quite a fool, then, if she sells the idea of herself as well as that. All the same, this wasn't the place for you—although I don't know—this might have happened anywhere."

Sylvia twisted her hands together. She looked down. She said:

"I'm—I'm sorry, father. I really am."

"So you should be," said Battle shortly. "Come here."

She came slowly and unwillingly across the room to him. He took her chin in his great square hand and looked closely into her face.

"Been through a great deal, haven't you?" he said gently. Tears started into her eyes.

MAN'S PRESENT TASK

IF we civilized men in this modern world have only escaped, like ancient Job, "by the skin of our teeth," what should be said and done regarding the Nazi war prisoners indicted and now facing trial before the world? Surely their betrayal of humanity was the greatest of modern times, and possibly the greatest and most condemnable in the records of human progress.

The New York Times observes that the two dozen Nazi leaders now facing an international bar of justice would be on top if Germany had won the war, and the honest and responsible members of our International Military Tribunal would be facing firing squads.

It is not in a spirit of vengeance that the Nazi leaders have been indicted and are doomed to a historic punishment, but as part of an essential cleansing, to eliminate destroyers of civilization and give mankind a more secure opportunity for life and progress. The fate of the human race, in these coming years, may be precarious at best; but it must have every possible chance to confirm and maintain throughout this present world an assured reign of human justice and opportunity for men of honor and faith. This seems to be the most important task that mankind has at present.

TINKERING

IT is with great relief that a tinkering nation finds wartime restrictions eased up, and such essentials as nails, screws, screw drivers, and even tools to operate them, creeping back into the market again.

One of the worst deprivations of the war era was the sad lack of such things. Millions of men and boys who inherited or developed a love for such pursuits grew more and more discouraged, as their private workshops were raided by desperate friends, neighbors, carpenters, plumbers, and so on. A hammer has been known to be rated at almost its weight in silver, and a saw blade almost its weight in gold and platinum.

The situation hasn't really loosened up much yet, but is on its way. And it probably requires no secret tips for parents, in countless homes, as to what to buy for Christmas—if they can get it.

Speaking of "atrocities trials," the Nazi war has been one long atrocity, and certainly a trial.

It is a question which had fewer friends, Laval or Hitler.

The next door neighbor thinks that tires are so called because they tire easily.

The Germans now blame everything on the Russians, but that shouldn't fool Americans.

Isolation is as dangerous in a nation as in an individual.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Mixed interpretations followed by the French election in which De Gaulle won a victory for socialism and democratic reorganization while the Communists won a plurality of the assembly.

The analyses we are being furnished are about as confused as if the Communists were to win a plurality in our congress against our Democrat and Republican combined majority, turned socialist (if you can imagine this.) No prognosticator could be sure of what would happen then. We would be forced to await developments.

Reserved pleasure nevertheless is noticeable here among those who know the French situation intimately. The Popular Republican movement (141 assembly seats) is largely representative of church sentiment in France and will never embrace Communism. In fact, the Pope in addressing Italian women the day of the French election, rather urged them to the democratic form of socialism and spoke clearly against the totalitarian (dictator) socialism which is Communism.

He also advised Italian women to get into politics, no doubt appreciating their primary interest in the home and the reliance of their lives upon the finer non-political phases of life, which makes them less easy prey for communistic capture.

The French Socialist party (142 seats) which won second place in the assembly, has about the same ideology as the popular Republican movement, without the church. It's absorption of a group called "Union of Republican Democratic Socialists" shows about what it is.

These two parties, if combined, easily can run the government, with their joint total of 83 seats against the Communists' 152. In fact, if you count in the minor parties below these big three, who are likely to work with De Gaulle, a possible democratic socialist majority of about two to one can be found.

This prospect no doubt explains the excessive silence of the Communists since their "victory." Their French party operates about like ours, on wires from Moscow. Authorities here have not discovered that Moscow threw any gold into the election campaign, although money has proved useful in French politics of the past.

The Communists have control of the French labor leaders, however, and may not have thought they needed to use money otherwise. Their assembly plurality was gained exclusively from factory districts. But the farm districts being church, and the white collar classes largely democratic socialists, a clear majority of French interests seem assuredly fortified to meet the future communist campaign to capture France.

The Communists, unquestionably, feel they are just beginning. They have increased their power from 47 seats they held before the war by three times now. They are in a position to harass and impede a coalition socialist government with their usual pressure politics, strikes and such action, in anticipation of the day when they will take over the democratic processes, abolish the assembly and operate strictly totalitarian in accord with Moscow doctrine.

Against that hope, however, is erected the election co-result crushing the old radical socialist party of corrupt politicians with whom they played ball in the inside.

Disorder Affecting The Lymph Glands

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE are a number of serious disorders which affect the lymph glands throughout the body. These glands aid in combating infections. There is, however, a more or less harmless or benign condition known as infectious mononucleosis which also affects the lymph glands in the body. This disease is also called glandular fever.

It is a disorder which comes on suddenly, producing many symptoms such as fever, sore throat, enlargement of the lymph glands, the spleen and the liver, and an increase in the number of white cells in the blood known as lymphocytes.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of this condition is not known. However, there are some who suspect that it may be due to an infection with such germs as the streptococcus, staphylococcus or perhaps a virus, that is, an organism so small that it will pass through the openings in a porcelain filter.

The disease may occur at any time of life, but most of those affected are either children or young adults. Men seem to have the condition more often than women. The disease seems to be more prevalent in the springtime.

Several Types

Several types of infectious mononucleosis have been described. In one type, the lymph gland enlargement is the most noticeable symptom. In the second type, sore throat and fever are outstanding. In the third type there is fever, headache, a feeling of sickness and a skin rash. The disorder may be mild or severe. Sometimes it may persist for weeks or months.

In some instances, there may be stiff neck, diarrhea, pains in the joints, nosebleed, itching of the skin and earache. In two out of three patients, enlargement of the spleen can be detected.

Paul-Bunnell Test

There is a test known as the Paul-Bunnell reaction, which may be carried out to aid in making a diagnosis. The test is made by mixing the blood cells from sheep with the blood serum from patients suspected of having infectious mononucleosis. If the disease is present, the blood serum will cause the red cells to form into clumps.

Up to the present time no particular type of treatment for infectious mononucleosis has been discovered which will speed recovery. On the other hand, the disease is rarely, if ever, a dangerous one, but knowledge of it is important because of the likelihood of confusing it with other more serious conditions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M.: Is it all right to get a permanent wave in the eighth month of pregnancy? Would it harm the baby?

Answer: There is apparently no reason why a permanent wave should not be given at the eighth month of pregnancy. It certainly would not affect the baby in any way.

B. C.: I have had my eyes examined and was told that I have spots on the lens of my eyes. What can be done for this condition?

Answer: It is possible that you have what is known as congenital cataracts, and that some operative treatment will be needed to remove the difficulty. A physician should be consulted concerning the advisability of such an operation.

Here we had a splendid example of how bridge talent is sometimes inherited. George Reith, Jr., son of the great contract authority who died a half a dozen years ago, did his father proud in the tournament on which this deal proved crucial. Both he and his partner in the South, David S. Gibson, of Plainfield, N. J., are fellows who figure things out.

When the diamond J was led, the Q being allowed to win, then the K also being ducked, Mr.

Gibson made clear deductions from East's failure to return the suit. Knowing that East was now out of diamonds, the heart J was won by the A instead of the Q being finessed. That decided the issue.

Mr. Gibson reckoned that, if the finesse lost, West could knock out the diamond A on the return. Then, if he tried for the needed spade trick to give him a total of nine, West, surely with the A for his bid, could get in and run the rest of the diamonds. But, after he won the heart J with the A and led a spade immediately afterward, his game was safe. West took that with the A. "I see."

Miss Amphrey hesitated a minute, then went out.

Battle was standing looking out of the window when the door opened again.

He turned around slowly and looked at his daughter.

Sylvia stood just inside the door which she had closed behind her. She was tall, dark, angular. Her face was sullen and bore marks of tears. She said timidly rather than defiantly:

"Well, here I am."

Battle looked at her thoughtfully for a minute or two. He sighed.

"I should never have sent you to this place," he said. "That woman's a fool."

Sylvia lost sight of her own problems in sheer amazement.

"Miss Amphrey? Oh, but she's wonderful! We all think so."

"H'm," said Battle. "Can't be quite a fool, then, if she sells the idea of herself as well as that. All the same, this wasn't the place for you—although I don't know—this might have happened anywhere."

Sylvia twisted her hands together. She looked down. She said:

"I'm—I'm sorry, father. I really am."

"So you should be," said Battle shortly. "Come here."

She came slowly and unwillingly across the room to him. He took her chin in his great square hand and looked closely into her face.

"Been through a great deal, haven't you?" he said gently. Tears started into her eyes.

Bonded Bourbon, Rye Won't Foresee Increased Activity
Be Plentiful for Long Time By Jap Liberals, Communists

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The day when the whiskey-drinking citizen of the United States can freely buy a bottle of bonded bourbon or rye at his liquor store still lies in the future.

Corn supplies, for bourbon distilling, still are being dished out a little at a time. In October, distillers received 750,000 bushels of corn, enough to run the industry about six and one-half days during the month.

Despite the end of the war, agriculture department officials maintain that corn must be conserved for other uses, such as livestock feeding and food production.

Department officials refuse to say when the distillers can get back on peace-time production basis, using all the corn they want.

In the meantime, citizens can expect plenty of blended whiskeys and other spirit mixtures. Distillers are carefully hoarding their bonded brand-name whiskeys to preserve the supply. But until the agriculture department frees corn supplies that good old bourbon will be hard to get.

Imported Scotch will continue to be scarce for several months, industry sources agree.

● WATCH FOR INCREASED ACTIVITY by Japanese liberals and Communists in the coming months as various factions seek to set up a so-called people's government in the enemy homeland.

And these groups will have the blessing of the Russian government, although the Soviets will not come out openly in support of such elements.

However, Far Eastern experts contend that Russia for some time has been fostering and indoctrinating groups of Japanese who will spearhead the movement to communize Japan even under the noses of the American occupation forces.

Many of the Japanese Socialists and Communists were forced to flee the homeland during the days of Nipponese control by arms, and since they have been living in Red China and Siberia.

Of course, it would have been easier to carry out the program if Russian forces were occupying part of Japan but the war ended too quickly for the Soviets. However, they are making a strong bid for a hand in ruling the Nipponese.

The Soviet pattern of domination in Europe is becoming clearer daily.

Russia saw to it that all four political parties in Berlin set up headquarters in Soviet-occupied territory in the German capital. And the Russians have made certain that the number one party is the Communist party.

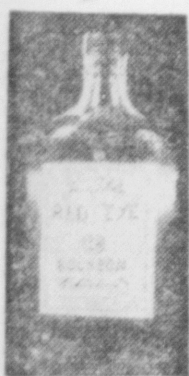

Men who have been following Far Eastern undercurrents warn that, if Russia has anything to say about it, the Red Star will replace the now-set Rising Sun in Japan.

It would provide that "properly accredited representatives of the press of any of the member nations will be granted full liberty to observe and report upon the contribution and utilization of relief and rehabilitation supplies and services furnished for any such country."

Business Women Hear Paper On 'Our Health'

Clara Southward Is Speaker At Group Meeting

A paper by Miss Clara Southward before the Business and Professional Women's club at the regular monthly meeting of that organization in the club rooms Thursday evening was devoted to "Our Health."

The program committee for the evening were the members of the health committee of the club, Miss Southward and Mrs. Harriett Hennis.

Miss Southward said in part—"Our Club, like others in the Federation, is urged to turn in each year a 100% record for health examinations and checkups, and provided with material designed to bring home to each member the vital importance of a sound individual health program, but health for each individual can be achieved and maintained continuously only when public health is kept at the same high level."

"According to a health survey made in 1935-36 by the U. S. Health Service it was found that every year there are in the country as a whole, approximately twenty million cases of disabling illness, the disability lasting on the average for a week or more."

"The extent of ill health and subnormal physical condition among our people was sharply brought home to us by the draft. Of over fourteen million men examined only two million were up to standard."

"From four to five million of these men between the ages of eighteen and 45 years, when they should be at their best, had to be rejected entirely because they lacked the physical or mental abilities necessary to bear arms."

"Greatly increased attention has been given to the subject of health since the beginning of the war."

"Although food rationing has restricted our choices in foods our diets on the whole have been better balanced. Inadequate food and bad diets cause many of our health problems."

"Accidents have been one of the chief causes of disability in the U. S. In 1941 it was estimated that there were at least thirty thousand accidents daily."

"Upon each of us, rests the obligation to set up and follow conscientiously a program of precautionary measures designed to prevent accidents."

"There is nothing heroic about an accident or an illness. Both are painful and expensive to the unfortunate individual incurring them, and both are wasteful and expensive to the community, taking a higher toll of lives, working hours and money than war."

"Good health is one of the strongest assets an individual, a community, a nation can have. Both individual and public health improve in direct ratio to the conscious efforts that are made to control the causes of illness and the measures that are set up for prompt and effective medical treatment. Nothing we could do, either in our own individual interests or in behalf of our community, could be productive of more deeply satisfying results."

During the business meeting which was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Hilyard, president of the club, arrangements were made for the card party which will be held in the club rooms, November 29. Proceeds of this party will go into the educational fund of the organization.

A donation of $5 was voted toward the war chest fund.

Mrs. H. W. Plum was voted into membership in the club.

A report of the meeting of district number 6, department of Ohio which was held in Cambridge recently was given by Miss Mary Howard and Mrs. George Green, delegates. Miss Minnie Palm reported on the dinner which was held in the Southern hotel, Columbus. A letter was also read from Mrs. Hoffman, president of the Columbus club in which she expressed her pleasure in having the local club cooperate with them.

Mission Is Theme At Group Meeting; Mrs. Croman Speaks

"Missions" was the theme of the meeting of the Group H class of the Presbyterian church which met Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Channing Vierehome on East Main street.

Devotional led by Mrs. Sterley Croman considered love as a basis for our actions with our fellow men.

A prayer for the missionaries was read by Mrs. George Steeley. A study of a world communion was given by Mrs. Forrest Croman who presented the problem of racial relationships as the central social problem of our time.

Mrs. Croman told her audience that Hitler's war was purely a racial war as all know and that Japan had played the racial problem for all that it was worth to show that our war aims were just so much wasted talk.

Discrimination by the white majority in the United States against color is weakening the fabric of our racial relations throughout the world. The Christian church as the leader should welcome the people of all races if we are to live up to the teachings and ideals of democracy.

A discussion of sewing for missions was led by Mrs. Loring Evans, chairman. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Channing Vierehome and Mrs. Harry Graef. The November meeting was set for November 29 at the home of Mrs. Sterley Croman.

Family Circle Has Halloween Party In Church Basement

A Halloween party in the basement of the Lutheran church Thursday when the rooms were decorated with foder and witches was in charge of a committee from the members of the Lutheran Family Circle, marking the regular meeting of that organization. The committee was composed of the Rev. and Mrs. George L. Troutman and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peters.

Between 60 and 70 members of the organization were present for the affair of which Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Smith were program and entertainment chairmen. Prizes for the maskers were awarded to 3 groups, prettiest, ugliest and most characteristic. Mrs. Stanley Melvin and Charles Walters served as judges. Prizes went to Nancy Sensenbrenner and Doris Smith for being the prettiest, both being dressed as brides; Sarah McConnell as a witch and George Weller, a tramp were the ugliest and Nelson Stevens as a black baby with a bottle and Mr. and Mrs. Galen Mowery as the Gold Dust twins were the most characteristic.

Games and contests completed the evening's entertainment.

Bob Burns, who used to be a carnival barker before his bazooka and his tall tales took him to radio fame, still clings to many of his old expressions. If his program producer interrupts his talk to the studio audience with a terse "One minute," (meaning one minute before the program goes on the air), Bob informs the crowd confidentially, "just time for one more sucker to be born."

Hal Peary, "The Great Gildersleeve," who used to be a radio singer before turning comedian, is collaborating with Music Conductor Jack Meskin on a song, "The Great Gildersleeve," which may become the program's theme song. Peary is working on the lyrics, Meskin on the melody.

GERSHWIN TUNE FEATURED

"Love Songs Through the Years" is the theme of the "Hour of Charm" for Sunday, A Gershwin favorite, "The Man I Love" features Evelyn and her Magic Violin, while Jeannie warbles a Cole Porter top tune—"I Love You" from "Mexican Hayride." Other tunes include, "Amen," "I Love You—Jeannie," "I Love You Truly," "The Man I Love," Gershwin, and "Lover Come Back to Me," by Romberg. The hymn of the evening, "Shall We Gather At The River" is dedicated to the patients and staff of the U. S. Naval Hospital at Chelsea, Mass.

SINGS FROM HOLLYWOOD

Roy Acuff, accompanied by the Smoky Mountain Boys, will be heard from Hollywood, where his new movie is in progress, on the "Grand Ole Opry" show, Saturday. His solos are the two favorites, "The Last Letter" and "We'll Understand It Better Bye and Bye," and the Smoky Mountain Boys play the popular square dance, "Soldier's Joy." Other musical highlights, which will originate from the Opry House in Nashville, Tenn., include "Sweet Bunch of Daisies" and "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine," harmonized by the Old Hickory Singers; "Black and White Rag," Mack McGarr's mandolin solo; "K C Whistle Blues," offered by Little Rachel, and Tommy Magness, his fiddle and "Fire in the Mountain." The Duke of Paducah (Whitey Ford) jokes about Halloween, and Minnie Pearl relates the latest gossip from her home town, Grinder's Switch.

Dunton, chairman; blood donor service, Hal Dean, general chairman, Mrs. A. Hulise Hays, registrar.

Carl C. Leist, retiring chairman, presided at the meeting. He paid special tribute to the work of Miss Agnes Butch, who kept Red Cross activities functioning for many years.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

That party ruled the old France. It convived rather openly with Moscow on international affairs, made separate friendship treaties, and internally met the terms of the Communist-dominated labor leaders in all economic essentials, letting them run the country down (sit-down strikes, 30-hour weeks and similar steps destroying production to the point where the French nation was no match for the Germans.)

The Communists thus only have enhanced their nuisance power in France — if that. Actually they have now come out in the open. Their own secret internal destruction technique cannot work so well when they must assume public responsibility for their actions.

They have lost their cover-front, and somehow Communism never has stood as well on its own feet anywhere. When required to come into the open, a destructive technique cannot be defended. Therefore I suspect their political position in France today may prove less powerful than it was before the war.

My deduction naturally implies France is going socialist. There are only two popular courses for European bankrupts. One is democratic socialism to handle the receivership; the other a dictatorship by either Fascist socialism or Communist socialism. In dictatorship liberty dies. In democratic socialism, hope at least is not extinguished.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

The discretion of a man defers his anger; and it is his glory to pass over a transgression.—Proverbs 19:11.

George Green, city policeman, is recovering at his home from a bad chest cold, which has kept him away from his "beat" for the last few days.

Mrs. Maynard Keaton and daughter have been removed from Berger hospital to their home on 417 Clinton street.

Western Auto says, "I know you will enjoy the new Circle Arrow Show on WLW, 10:30 a. m. Sunday morning."

Mrs. Clifford Dennison of 129 York street became a patient in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon.

The Eagles Club will sponsor a games party, Friday evening beginning at 8:30. Everyone invited.

Jacob Clark, route 1 Kingston, was admitted to Berger hospital Thursday afternoon after suffering injury to his left arm while working on the farm. It was not known whether the arm was broken, pending an x-ray examination.

There will be a 50-50 dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 at the Eagles Home. It is open to the public.

Billy E. May, West Main street, was admitted as a patient in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. William Strawser has been removed from Grant hospital to her home at 403 East Franklin street.

Mrs. Betty Heeter has been taken from her home on East Mill street to Doctor's hospital, Columbus.

KENTUCKIAN FINED

Mark Fyffe, Ashland, Ky., has been fined $50 on the second of two counts with which he was charged, that of transporting untaxed whiskey. And he has been committed to the county jail.

Poodle Came First

WIDDOES GOES TO MINNESOTA FOR BIG GAME

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — Ohio State football Coach Carroll Widdoes boarded a train for Minneapolis Thursday where his Buckeye players face the University of Minnesota Saturday, after physicians told him his two young sons, victims of a hit-skip driver last night, were in "fairly good" condition.

Thomas, 5, and James, 13, were struck last night by a hit-run driver and hurled 75 feet against the back end of a truck.

Both of Thomas' legs were fractured above the knee. James suffered severe cuts and bruises.

Weeds rob plants of water, food, space and light.

NATIONS MUST WORK TOGETHER

Samuel S. Wyer Tells Rotary Members Understanding Needed For Peace

"The world must have one common understanding if there is to be world peace," Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer of Columbus, asserted in a talk on "The Significance of the United Nations Charter" at the Rotary Club meeting Thursday.

The guest, who proved himself an idealistic man and an excellent orator, said, "the United Nations Charter must work and nations must live together under it in peace or die together in war."

"In the future the world must live together as one nation," he said.

"We cannot keep the atomic bomb a secret. Other nations have been close to its discovery," he declared.

Mr. Wyer said that peacetime conscription was all wrong. "It makes other nations suspicious," he declared, but he said he wanted to make clear that he felt there was no room for isolationism in any hope for a peaceful world, asserting that we should take our full share of the responsibility for world peace, a world peace built on understanding.

He said that in order to assume our proper place in world order, that we must first clean house at home.

"We teach liberty, equality and fair play, yet there are nine states which have laws which contradict this. For every three persons in the world, there is only one that is white. The white cannot rule the world. In the past we have insulted other races—this must be stopped," he said.

"Some states have laws about race and religion that are entirely contrary to our democratic principles and should be corrected," he said.

Mr. Wyer's definition of the United Nations' Organization is as follows: "This is the biggest document in history—it's for and by the people—and should be abided by all nations—It provides—human rights—dignity and worth of each person—equal rights of all persons and nations—treaty obligations—collective action—and international law. It calls for—solving of social and economic problems by an international court—with power to settle disputes peacefully and to control aggressive nations."

In closing he stated, "humane nature can change human behavior."

Officers Named At Annual Red Cross Meeting

MISS MARY RYAN IS SPEAKER AT MEETING HERE

Chairmen Report On Year's Work; Harold Bowers Named Chairman

Officers were named, reports heard and an interesting talk given at the annual meeting of the Pickaway chapter American Red Cross Thursday night.

Miss Mary Ryan, overseas field worker with the Red Cross, told of her experiences on the Gripsholm which returned repatriated prisoners to the United States. She told of meeting them at the German border and helping supply the many items they needed after being prisoners.

Members of the new executive committee selected at the meeting are: Harold Bowers, chairman; Lloyd Sproule, vice chairman; Lyman A. Bell, treasurer; Miss Marvonne Howard, secretary; Mrs. Carson Horton, Fred Tipton and Mrs. Clark Will.

Directors chosen for a three-year term are: H. D. Fudge, Harrison township; Miss Martha Warren, Madison township; Mrs. Fannie Brooks, Muhlenberg township; Cecil Briggs, Perry township; Harold Strous, Saltcreek township; Mrs. Clarence McAbee, Wayne township; Miss Marvonne Howard and Dr. Lloyd Sproule, city of Circleville; Harold Bowers, member-at-large.

Directors for a two-year term: Mrs. Carson Horton, Circleville township; Ray Ridgeway, Darby township; Scott Radcliff, Jackson township; Mrs. Harry Dick, Monroe township; A. W. Bosworth, Washington township; Lyman A. Bell, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, city of Circleville.

Named to one-year terms are: Fred Tipton, Deer Creek township; Mrs. Ralph Head, Pickaway township; William Green, Scioto township; J. B. Cromley, Walnut township; Carl Leist and Joseph Noecker, city of Circleville. Chairmen of standing committees will serve on the board.

Report of chapter activities were given as follows: home service, Mrs. Beulah H. Madison, executive secretary; volunteer special services, Mrs. Clark Will, chairman; staff assistance corps, Mrs. David Harman, chairman; home service corps, Mrs. Charles Boggs, chairman; production corps, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, chairman; junior Red Cross, Mrs. Cleon Webb, chairman; camp and hospital committee, Mrs. James P. Moffitt, chairman; and Mrs. Harry W. Heffner, vice chairman; disaster relief, Robert L. Brechner, chairman; home nursing, Mrs. Harry W. Heffner, chairman; first aid and water safety, Charles Boggs, chairman; public information, Miss Florence H. Dunton, chairman; blood donor service, Hal Dean, general chairman, Mrs. A. Hulise Hays, registrar.

Carl C. Leist, retiring chairman, presided at the meeting. He paid special tribute to the work of Miss Agnes Butch, who kept Red Cross activities functioning for many years.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

That party ruled the old France. It convived rather openly with Moscow on international affairs, made separate friendship treaties, and internally met the terms of the Communist-dominated labor leaders in all economic essentials, letting them run the country down (sit-down strikes, 30-hour weeks and similar steps destroying production to the point where the French nation was no match for the Germans.)

The Communists thus only have enhanced their nuisance power in France — if that. Actually they have now come out in the open. Their own secret internal destruction technique cannot work so well when they must assume public responsibility for their actions.

They have lost their cover-front, and somehow Communism never has stood as well on its own feet anywhere. When required to come into the open, a destructive technique cannot be defended. Therefore I suspect their political position in France today may prove less powerful than it was before the war.

My deduction naturally implies France is going socialist. There are only two popular courses for European bankrupts. One is democratic socialism to handle the receivership; the other a dictatorship by either Fascist socialism or Communist socialism. In dictatorship liberty dies. In democratic socialism, hope at least is not extinguished.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
The discretion of a man doth ferret his anger; and it is his glory to pass over a transgression.—Proverbs 19:11.

George Green, city policeman, is recovering at his home from a bad chest cold, which has kept him away from his "beat" for the last few days.

Mrs. Maynard Keaton and daughter have been removed from Berger hospital to their home on 417 Clinton street.

Western Auto says, "I know you will enjoy the new Circle Arrow Show on WLW, 10:30 a. m. Sunday morning."

Mrs. Clifford Dennison of 129 York street became a patient in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon.

The Eagles Club will sponsor a games party, Friday evening beginning at 8:30. Everyone invited.

Jacob Clark, route 1 Kingston, was admitted to Berger hospital Thursday afternoon after suffering injury to his left arm while working on the farm. It was not known whether the arm was broken, pending an x-ray examination.

There will be a 50-50 dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 at the Eagles Home. It is open to the public.

Billy E. May, West Main street, was admitted as a patient in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. William Strawser has been removed from Grant hospital to her home at 403 East Franklin street.

Mrs. Betty Hoeter has been taken from her home on East Mill street to Doctor's hospital, Columbus.

KENTUCKIAN FINED
Mark Fyffe, Ashland, Ky., has been fined $50 on the second of two counts with which he was charged, that of transporting untaxed whiskey. And he has been committed to the county jail.

Poodle Came First

WIDDOES GOES TO MINNESOTA FOR BIG GAME

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — Ohio State football Coach Carroll Widdoes boarded a train for Minneapolis Thursday where his Buckeye players face the University of Minnesota Saturday, after physicians told him his two young sons, victims of a hit-skip driver last night, were in "fairly good" condition.

Thomas, 5, and James, 13, were struck last night by a hit-run driver and hurled 75 feet against the back end of a truck.

Both of Thomas' legs were fractured above the knee. James suffered severe cuts and bruises.

Weeds rob plants of water, food, space and light.

NATIONS MUST WORK TOGETHER

Samuel S. Wyer Tells Rotary Members Understanding Needed For Peace

"The world must have one common understanding if there is to be world peace," Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer of Columbus, asserted in a talk on "The Significance of the United Nations Charter" at the Rotary Club meeting Thursday.

The guest, who proved himself an idealistic man and an excellent orator, said, "The United Nations Charter must work and nations must live together under it in peace or die together in war."

"In the future the world must live together as one nation," he said.

"We cannot keep the atomic bomb a secret. Other nations have been close to its discovery," he declared.

Mr. Wyer said that peace-time conscription was all wrong. "It makes other nations suspicious," he declared, but he said he wanted to make clear that he felt there was no room for isolationism in any hope for a peaceful world, asserting that we should take our full share of the responsibility for world peace, a world peace built on understanding.

He said that in order to assume our proper place in world order, that we must first clean house at home.

"We teach liberty, equality and fair play, yet there are nine states which have laws which contradict this. For every three persons in the world, there is only one that is white. The white cannot rule the world. In the past we have insulted other races—this must be stopped," he said.

"Some states have laws about race and religion that are entirely contrary to our democratic principles and should be corrected," he said.

Mr. Wyer's definition of the United Nations Organization is as follows: "This is the biggest document in history—it's for and by the people—and should be abided by all nations—it provides—humane rights—dignity and worth of each person—equal rights of all persons and nations—treaty obligations—collective action—and international law. It calls for—solving of social and economic problems by an international court—with power to settle disputes peacefully and to control aggressive nations."

In closing he stated, "humane nature can change human behavior."
